

PATHWAYS TO RECOVERY AND RESILIENT FOOD SYSTEMS

Pre-Summit: September 6 | Summit: 7-10 September 2021

Hosted by the Government of the Republic of Kenya

Venue: Nairobi/Virtual

Program Synopsis

Overview

The evidence is clearer than ever - we need to transform our food systems, and we need to do it now. 2021 is a critical year for recovery and food system transformation. The AGRF 2021 Summit is a defining moment in highlighting and unlocking the political, policy, and financial commitments and innovations the continent has made and that it continues to work towards achieving. It is about advancing the commitments made at the Malabo Heads of State Summit and working hard to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals.

This year's AGRF Summit will explore the pathways and actions needed to accelerate this process and steer the continent towards food systems transformation. As part of the contributions to the UN Food Systems Summit (UNFSS), this year's AGRF Summit, under the banner "Pathways to recovery and resilient food systems", aims to elevate the single coordinated African voice to the UNFSS and identify immediate actions and steps that need to be taken to accelerate progress and recovery towards inclusive agricultural transformation.

The AGRF 2021 Program seeks to showcase solutions and elevate pathways to food systems transformation and recovery under four action tracks:

- Equitable & Inclusive Livelihoods
- #BuildForwardBetter
- Healthy People and Planet
- Future Food Systems

Schedule

The AGRF Program will run each day, and there are two-time blocks for parallel sessions in the morning, and mid-day, to avoid any overlap with the main sessions. See the below Program that outlines days and time blocks.

Venue

The eleventh Annual Summit of the AGRF will be held virtually from 6-10 September 2021 and will be co-hosted by the Government of Kenya and the AGRF Partners Group.

Due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, all sessions will be virtual in a hybrid format. The AGRF's virtual platform will go live in the week before the event and will include a registration link.

Time	SESSION
SUNRISE
10:00-11:00	International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD) Session title: Unlocking African PDBs catalytic role (for increased investments in sustainable food systems) The plenary platform-streamed event on unlocking African PDBs catalytic role aims at linking national and international/regional PDBs, commercial banks, donors/investors, and SMEs/farmers organizations in the effort to create sustainable inclusive and green rural finance value chains. The potential of African Public Development Banks (PDBs) in catalyzing investments for sustainable food systems will be assessed. Moreover, the event will examine challenges, opportunities, best practices, and experiences of PDBs and relevant players in catalyzing and channeling more public and private finance to transform food systems in Africa.
	Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) / African Union Commission and the African Continental Free Trade Area Secretariat Session title: Intra-African agricultural trade within the context of the AfCFTA The side event aims to discuss and highlight the challenges encountered including emerging innovations and opportunities during implementation of the AfCFTA in the agricultural sector since trading under preferential arrangements started on 1 January 2021. It brings together seasoned practitioners to evaluate the achievements made to date in the midst of the ongoing CV-19 global pandemic and other difficulties faced by African countries. In addition, the Side Event will bring forth the opportunities yet to be seized in an agrifood market projected to grow to US$ 1 trillion by 2030 and the tools and innovations available to expand intra-African trade.
	International Development Research Centre (IDRC) Session title: Women inclusion in resilience of agricultural value chains Via a discussion on how three different research projects in three African regions (East, West and North) can react to contextualized challenges in terms of resilience and equity of food systems, we aim to share knowledge on how multi-stakeholders' approaches can be used to gain better understanding on the importance of a stronger role of women farmers and their families in the food systems and in key commodities value chains within the system.
	International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD) Session title: Building resilient food systems The plenary platform-streamed event on building resilient food systems will serve as an opportunity for the private sector, farmer organizations, youths government and development partners to discuss and reflect new pathways to building the future development agenda, shaped to improve resilience and equitable livelihoods of rural people in presence of challenges like COVID 19, climate change, fragility &amp; conflicts and 3

	inter and intra-continental trade barriers. Moreover, it will identify the role of the private sector, farmer organizations, government, and development partners in transforming the agriculture and food systems in Africa. Commission on Sustainable Agriculture Intensification (CoSAI) Session title: Effective instruments for innovation investment A recent study by the Commission on Sustainable Agriculture Intensification (CoSAI) revealed that only 7% of the investment in innovation in the Global South has explicit environmental outcomes and only half of that had clear social objectives. To transform the global system through increased investment in innovation, requires effective instruments that provide financial and/or non-financial support to innovation processes. The session will explore a cohort of instruments, with a focus on understanding the contexts in which they have been used effectively, enabling validation of preliminary findings and suggestions for further evidence. Growing-Smart Agriculture Session title: Agro Knowledge food security solutions Agro knowledge is the most challenging task in the development of modern agriculture. The Practical Agriculture Courses offers a comprehensive approach to teaching agricultural production. The PAC is supporting and improving farming communities, large-scale cultivation firms and food security projects. The Practical Agricultural Courses are based on the regional marketing targets and needs. We take into consideration the local crops, local climate, soil and crop suitability. The PAC emphasis will be made on sustainable and economical agriculture solutions. The PAC program is based on a “train the trainer” concept, Israeli agronomists will teach local candidates to be trainers, enhancing their knowledge and teaching skills.
11:00-11:15	Transition Break
11:15-13:00	Alliance for a Green Revolution in Africa (AGRA) (Centre for African Leaders in Agriculture (CALA) and the African Food Fellowship Session title: African food systems leadership – how to shape the future? The ‘African food systems leadership – how to shape the future?’ session will explore how to inspire new forms of leadership in agri-food systems that can accelerate systems-level change across Africa. CALA and the African Food Fellowship, as new agri-food system leadership support initiatives, seek to catalyze a professional movement of food system leaders who work collaboratively to build sustainable food systems for the well-being of all African citizens and its environment. The session will begin a new dialogue on the nature of African leadership for food systems transformation in Africa and familiarize attendees with the two initiatives. Heifer International Session title: Positioning African Youths to Transform Food Systems Through Technology Heifer International’s 2021 survey report, “The Future of Africa’s Agriculture: An Assessment of the Role of Youth and Technology”, reveals that “smallholder farmers

	will embrace advanced technologies if the tools are affordable, and they can receive training in how to use them.” The report reveals the urgency of new investments to stimulate access to financing and technology innovation as a means to rejuvenating Africa’s food systems and develop economic opportunities. The side event will review key findings of the report, discuss actionable solutions and chart new pathways to the future of food - fundamentally heralding a generational shift in African agriculture.
	Alliance for a Green Revolution in Africa (AGRA) Session title: South-South and Triangular Cooperation: Promoting Youth-led Agri-food Innovations from the Global South Food systems are integral to the health and economic wellbeing of people across the planet. In Africa, where they account for almost 60% of the population, young people have been engaging and investing in activities that support agri-food value chains. However, they face significant constraints that curtail their capacity to contribute to the economy, such as the lack of product visibility. For this year’s AGRF, the South-South and Triangular Cooperation event - organized jointly by IFAD and AGRA - will highlight innovative solutions from the youth that are transforming the agri-food sector in Africa; and provide a platform to tackle some of their existing challenges.
	ONE CGIAR Session title: Science &amp; innovation for sustainable and resilient food systems in Africa This side event focuses on the roles of science, research, and innovation in sustainable and resilient food systems for Africa. It highlights One CGIAR priorities and commitments and discusses how these can help accelerate inclusive agricultural transformation in Africa. The session begins by briefly outlining key components of the One CGIAR’s new research and innovation strategy and its priorities for Africa. In a conversation, CGIAR regional leaders will set out their priorities and actions to accelerate inclusive agricultural transformation. A multi-stakeholder panel of agricultural transformation actors will showcase ways that One CGIAR research and innovation has, and can make a difference to the sustainability and resilience of food systems in Africa. The session concludes by drawing together proposals and recommendations for One CGIAR to deliver its commitments to Africa.
	Farm Radio International Session title: E-Extension: Accelerating Building Back Better E-Extension services have a direct contribution to increased capacity to generate, analyze and use data and innovations to accelerate recovery and resilience of food systems. E-Extension: Accelerating Building Back Better will explore emerging issues, best practices and evidence in digital extension as a key driver in transforming food systems for sub-Saharan Africa.
	AFEX &amp; Smallholder and Agri-SME Finance and Investment Network (SAFIN)

Time	SESSION
	Session title: Digital Financial Services for Agriculture Financial inclusion and payment systems are a central consideration in digital financial services. Including smallholder farmers means that they can access systems of credit, can keep their money safely, and can be assured of reduced transaction time and costs. Creating appropriately tailored digital financial service innovations for smallholder farmers and other value chain actors, which fit their needs, is one part of the puzzle. This session will drive conversations on the adoption of digital financial services for agriculture, within the context of the challenges it can solve and the huge potential for scalable outcomes that will improve our food systems.
13:00-13:15	Transition Break
13:15-14:15	International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD) Session title: One-Health Approach for Building Resilience The platform-streamed event aims at discussing the opportunities, strengths and main hampering factors for the implementation of the One Health approach (OHA) in the Africa. Major human and animal disease threats and related costs; the importance of OHA and slow rollout in Africa; the means to catalyze the adoption and implementation of the OHA in Africa and the role of governments, UN and donor organizations in supporting and promoting it will be assessed. The prospect for establishing a multi-stakeholder regional/sub-regional platform to discuss emerging issues around human and livestock diseases, raise awareness on the correct use of antibiotics will be proposed. Technologies for African Agricultural Transformation (TAAT) Session title: Technology brokerage for a resilient food system in Africa As Africa tackles the COVID-19 pandemic, hunger and malnutrition lurk around Africa menacingly. With its population edging towards 2 billion by 2050 amidst relentless urbanisation and climate change, Africa's ability to feed itself is at great risk unless it strengthens its food systems as an integral part of efforts to recover from the COVID-19 pandemic and to build resilience. At the core of Africa's food security challenge is productivity. African agriculture is often uncompetitive and results in around a third of calories consumed in Africa being imported from outside the continent. Recent successes in implementing the African Development Bank's Feed Africa Strategy via the Technologies for African Agricultural Transformation (TAAT) programme reveal that increased investments in innovative technologies and brokerage can boost agricultural productivity, with important results for the overall strength of food systems. The side event on "Technology brokerage for a resilient food system in Africa" will provide vistas on the efficacy of technology brokerage in building resilient food systems. African Development Bank (AfDB) &amp; International Livestock Research Institute (ILRI) Session title: Livestock Investment Masterplan (LIVEMAP) The Livestock Investment Master Plan (LIVEMAP) provides a comprehensive framework to shape investment in the livestock sector, and help African countries sustainably raise the productivity, resilience, and profitability of livestock systems,

Time	SESSION
	create inclusive employment along the value chains and contribute to food and nutrition security. A ten minute overview of the LIVEMAP will be presented by the moderator followed by discussions by the panelists on how the LIVEMAP can be useful to building resilient food systems in Africa and a question and answer session with participants. For more information see the LIVEMAP narrative and the accompanying LIVEMAP website: https://livestockinvestmentmasterplan.info/
	Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) Session title: Impact of the COVID-19 Pandemic on Agriculture, Food Security, and Nutrition in Africa The side event is to discuss the findings and recommendations of various assessments of the impact of the COVID-19 Pandemic on Agriculture, Food Security, and Nutrition in Africa and to support advocacy and country programming by policy makers and other decision makers who are designing and implementing COVID-19 response and recovery policies, programmes and investments in Africa. The session intends to provide a comprehensive understanding of the impact of the pandemic in Africa based on an analytical review of available evidence. The keynote presentation will underline the macroeconomic impact as well as the impact on agricultural production, livestock, fisheries, markets, trade, food security and nutrition. In addition, priority countries for response and recovery programmes/investments are identified based on a composite index analysis. A panel will deliberate on the implication of the findings and recommendations as well as highlight promising policy and investment interventions that can stimulate an inclusive recovery to help build back better resilient agri-food systems.
	International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD) Session title: Food Systems Approach to Rural Transformation The Rural Development Report (RDR) is IFAD's flagship research publication. This year it focuses on food systems transformation for rural prosperity and it is due for release right before the Food Systems Summit. The RDR cuts across (i) equitable livelihoods, (ii) nutrition and health and (iii) resilience. Key highlights of the report will be shared, such as the importance of adopting a food systems approach, the key challenges and driving factors, opportunities for transformation, investments, innovation; implications for the environment and the importance of not leaving anyone behind. Some of its key authors from IFAD and the University of Wageningen will participate as well as other key researcher.
	SAO GROUP Session title: Special Agro-Industrial Processing Zone (Oil Palm and Cocoa Value Chain Development) The Special Agro-industrial Processing Zones (oil palm and cocoa value chain) are areas of high agricultural potential located across the south-western states in Nigeria with a focus on the oil palm and cocoa value chain. The objectives of this session include; <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• To support the development of climate-resilient enabling infrastructure and management of the agro-industrial zones</li> </ul>

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>· Enhancing climate-smart agricultural production and productivity in the oil palm and cocoa value chain</li> <li>· Seek investors and potential partners in the SAPZ</li> <li>· Support enabling institutional capacity, policy, regulatory and business environment for agribusiness project management in the oil palm and cocoa value chain</li> <li>· Seek long term collaboration between the SAPZ and potential off-takers of product for export</li> </ul>
14:15-14:30	Transition Break
14:30-16:15	Syngenta Foundation for Sustainable Agriculture/Syngenta Session title: Soil and root health: how can they be enhanced to tackle climate change, food insecurity and malnutrition? Africa is severely impacted by soil degradation and climate change. This negatively affects the region's agri-food systems resilience and ability to strengthen sustainable intensification to improve continental food self-sufficiency. The State of Food Security and Nutrition in the World 2021 also shows that while Africa remains the most food insecure continent in the world, it also has the fastest growing population and highest prevalence of undernourishment. It is crucial to act now on soil and root health to support recovery and resilience, meet the evolving challenges and unlock Africa's potential sustainably. The session will share the latest thinking on how collective action and continuous innovation can tackle the challenges of enhancing soil and root health at scale. Rockefeller Foundation Session title: Distributed Renewable Energy-Agriculture Modalities (DREAM) Learning from the experience of Ethiopia in clustering agricultural production and piloting the use of renewable energy towards production, post-harvest management and agro-processing, and India in linking agriculture production with renewable energy mini-grids for strengthened agriculture value chains. These learnings around modelling for economic viability, environmental sustainability, and the importance of intentional ecosystem support will give insights to other countries that may want to pursue similar paths. AMEA &amp; HarvestPlus Session title: Forging resilient food systems with smallholder farmers and agri-SMEs The session aims to highlight the urgent need to support practical, proven, scalable approaches to engaging and empowering those who make up the backbone of African agriculture and food systems: smallholder farmers and agri-food SMEs. The session will do this by diving deeper beyond the high-level discussion of food systems transformation, so that we hear from those "on the ground" about what works, what does not, and what our priorities should be. Examples will be presented from the extensive portfolio from HarvestPlus and the AMEA Network. AgFlow SA Session title: Trade Support Information Systems

Pathways to recovery and resilient food systems

Time	SESSION
	SDG2 Advocacy Hub Session title: New Consensus for Smallholder Farmers Good food begins with farmers. Smallholder farmers sit at the heart of our food systems yet struggle to earn enough to feed their own families. The UNFSS, N4G and COP26 are opportunities to coordinate action to invest in smallholders' health, livelihoods, productivity and sustainability. Recent reports, including Ceres2030 and the CAADP Biennial Review, global and regional initiatives provide a roadmap. In the absence of a clearly articulated policy consensus across diverse stakeholders, however, these efforts compete for resources and fail to achieve the collective impact needed. This session will explore building a new consensus to move from evidence to action. <hr/> Cultivating New Frontiers in Agriculture (CNFA) Session title: An Integrated Approach to Address Climate and Food Security Challenges in Rwanda The interactive AGRF session "An Integrated Approach to Address Climate and Food Security Challenges in Rwanda" will describe the Feed the Future Rwanda Hinga Weze Activity's integrated approach to advance climate and nutrition sensitive agriculture by sustainably increasing incomes, productivity and market access for smallholder farmers. Panelists will describe how Hinga Weze, implemented by CNFA and funded by USAID, has built resilience to climate change and increased the availability of nutritious foods—addressing key questions such as how climate change affects farmers in Rwanda and which climate-smart agriculture approaches and strategies best address climate shocks while improving food security.
16:15-16:30	Transition Break
16:30-18:30	Session Organizer: Agriculture Transformation Office, Ministry of Agriculture, Livestock, Fisheries &amp; Cooperatives - Kenya Session title: Kenya's Pathways to Sustainable Food Systems In preparation for the 2021 Food Systems Summit, a series of subnational dialogues were held across the country. The results from these dialogues have shaped the Kenyan contribution to the Food Systems Summit and further the national foundations and commitment to transforming food systems. This side event will focus on Kenya's identified pathways towards Food Systems Transformation – Youth, Digital Innovation, Diverse Diets and Climate Change. The event will create an opportunity for a leadership-focused discussion on outcomes and will finalize the Kenyan vision for the Future of Food Systems. <hr/> BIFAD, USAID, AAP, ReNAPRI, World Bank and the African Development Bank Session title: Agricultural Transformation for Sustainable and Resilient Food Systems Convening leaders from diverse stakeholder including BIFAD, USAID, AfDB, World Bank, ReNAPRI, and Alliance for African Partnership, panel discussion will identify conditions and properties of resilient, sustainable food systems and propose policies and programs for African governments to achieve them. Considering varying conditions across Africa, expert private- and public-sector panelists will explore effective strategies for resilient, sustainable food systems and how these differ across

	countries, with consideration of fragile and resource-rich states. Discussion will draw from country case studies and recent evidence, including work commissioned by BIFAD, a World Bank publication, and an AfDB report, on linkages between agricultural productivity, economic transformation, and resilience.
	Alliance for a Green Revolution in Africa (AGRA) / International Maize and Wheat Improvement Center (CIMMYT) Session title: Rehabilitating acid soils for food security in Africa In line with the theme of AGRF 2021 on forging pathways to recovery and resilient food systems, this side event will give evidence on how rehabilitating acid soils is important for improved productivity and resilient food security. It highlights the status of the acidic soils and the impact on the productivity on the continent and especially in East Africa. Furthermore, it identifies constraints on the production, distribution and use including the policy aspects but also solutions/lessons from different countries and stakeholders. The outcome of the event will be recommendations for advocacy and actions from private sector and Government in terms of investments and policy reforms to stimulate production and use of quality lime for resilient and sustainable food systems for our continent.
	Rockefeller Foundation / IKEA Foundation Session title: Food Systems and Integrated Policy The momentum generated by the Food Systems Summit has put food systems transformation at the center of global discourse and many African national agendas. Food systems in Africa are still maturing and can be steered in a healthier, more sustainable, and more equitable direction through integrated and coherent policy. Despite progress in cross-sectoral policy coherence in several African countries, these strategies have focused primarily on agricultural production or maternal and child nutrition. Food systems transformation requires systems thinking and a new level of inter-sectorality and inclusivity in policy development and implementation. This session will explore various experiences and approaches towards food system policies that are integrated and transformational.
	Alliance for African Partnership at Michigan State University (MSU) Session title: Youth and Agri-food System's Resilience in Africa Building a sustained and resilient agri-food system is an intergenerational mandate which demands the active engagement of African youth. With their large numbers, relatively high educational levels, and affinity for digital technology, African youth represent an indispensable resource, which if properly harnessed, can foster a more resilient and productive agri-food system. However, questions remain on effective strategies to harness youth innovativeness and energy. To help provide guidance for policy, this session will discuss evidence-based and pragmatic approaches that could foster productive youth engagement supportive of resilient agri-food systems in Africa.
	Long-term Europe-Africa Research and Innovation Partnership for Food and Nutrition Security and Sustainable Agriculture (LEAP4FNSSA), Wageningen University &amp; Research Session title: AU-EU Game Changer for Resilient Food Systems

	Research can be the game changer for building new food system resilience pathways. The AU-EU Platform is an opportunity for all stakeholders to raise their voice for the transformation they want. Peer reviewed evidence and innovation is the basis for developing policies. Knowledge management systems can make this information easily accessible. Added value for stakeholders comes from new coordination mechanism between stakeholder groups. We invite policy makers, entrepreneurs, civil society actors, youth and scientists to come together for a new way of bi-continental cooperation, that brings together their knowledge to help policy makers make sound policies for driving agri-food development.

Time	SESSION
	This equitable livelihoods workshop will narrow in on the themes of innovative financing and strengthening women's climate resilience and adaptation, by highlighting how innovative financing is contributing to gender equality and women's empowerment across the continent and the need to scale these initiatives through commitments from financial institutions for the benefit of all women in agriculture. As we gear up for COP 26 and the race to net zero, the session will also explore mechanisms for ensuring women shape and lead climate adaptation plans. For food systems transformation to occur at a global scale, we must recognize that Africa is not at par with the rest of the world and financing is critical for African women to catch up and be part of this transformation. The session will call for action and draw commitments from financial institutions, governments, private sector players, development partners and other stakeholders to increase financing for women in agriculture, including climate finance. Moderator: Keynote: Setting the Scene Fireside Chat - Sequence 1 – Innovative financial inclusion and networks Panel discussion Panelists <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Ms. Jamie Anderson, Senior Financial Sector Specialist, Rural and Agricultural Livelihoods – CGAP / World Bank Group</li> <li>2. Ms. Nigest Haile, Founder &amp; Executive Director Center for Accelerated Women's Economic Empowerment (CAWEE) Addis Ababa, Ethiopia</li> <li>3. Ms. Edith Wheatland, CEO, Rockland Farms</li> </ol> Sequence 2: Build up to COP26 – Strengthening women's climate resilience and adaptation Panel discussion Panellists <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>4. Mr. Jean Claude (JC) Rubyogo, Bean Programme Leader &amp; Director, PABRA, CIAT</li> <li>5. Ms. Leticia Mpuya, Country Director Tanzania, Heifer International</li> <li>6. Dr. Jyotsna Puri, Director, Environment, Climate, Gender and Social Inclusion Division (ECG) – IFAD</li> </ol>

Food systems — encompassing the interlinked biophysical and human systems that span from agricultural production, through post-harvest manufacturing and distribution, to food consumption — should be engineered primarily to boost productivity in delivering healthy dietary needs supply sufficient to avoid famines in the face of human population growth. The urgency of transforming Africa's food systems is irrefutable.

To build on this digital transformation opportunity and the rapid integration of digital and innovative technologies within every stage of the agricultural value-chain, it would be important for innovators to ensure that all these innovative solutions address the incidence of needs of African farmers, agribusinesses, policy makers and researchers involved. This session will focus on concrete outcomes to increase the innovation sustainability of digital solutions for African Agriculture. Moderator: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Mr. Yassine Cherkaoui, Vice President- Strategy, Innovation and Analytics, OCP</li> </ul> Introduction: Matching digital Solutions to Farmers' Needs <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Ms. Maura Barry, Senior Deputy Assistant Administrator, USAID</li> </ul> Sequence 1: Leveraging Digital Innovations to Accelerate Food Systems <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Mr. Daniel Asare-Kyei, CEO, Esoko, Ghana</li> <li>• Mr. Brian King – Coordinator, CGIAR Platform for Big Data</li> <li>• Mr. Etienne Niyigaba, Agriculture Extension Advisor, Hinga Weze Project in Rwanda</li> </ul>

11:00-12:45	Parallel Workshops – Trade Removing Barriers to Regional Trade in Food Staples In order for the African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA) to be successfully implemented, African countries will need significant investments in building robust data systems to generate data and information for decision-making. Early warning systems for food and nutrition security are needed to provide alerts on a frequent basis, showing potential areas of surplus and deficits. This will enable different stakeholders to prepare in averting crises, and especially for the private sector to move food from areas of surplus to areas of deficit. To contribute toward the AGRF 2021 outcomes, the Food Trade Coalition for Africa will host two sessions during the AGRF 2021 Summit focused on 1) Removing Barriers to Regional Trade in Food Staples and 2) Building Robust Data Systems: The Regional Food Balance Sheet. Moderator: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Mr. Jonathan Said, Head of Inclusive Growth and Private-Sector Development Practice, Tony Blair Institute for Global Change</li> </ul> Sequence 1: Panel 1: Breaking the Barriers to Trade for Stronger Food and Nutrition Security in Africa Keynote Address: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Mr. Melvin Spreij, Head, Standards and Trade Development Facility, World Trade Organization</li> <li>• Ms. Fatma Ben Rejeb, Chief Executive Officer, Pan African Farmer’s Organization</li> </ul> Moderator: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Dr. Nalishebo Meebelo, Senior Program Coordinator, ReNAPRI</li> </ul> Sequence 2: Panel 2: Building Strong Food Systems through Inclusive Data Sharing Keynote Address: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>•</li> </ul> Panel Discussion: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Dr. Ade Freeman, Regional Programme Leader, Regional Office for Africa, FAO</li> </ul>

11:00-12:45	Parallel Workshops – Generation Africa Ecosystem Development Framework (EDF): Enabling youth through their agripreneurship journey and participation in the food systems. Generation Africa is taking this bold step of proactively examining the state of the ecosystem supporting young Agripreneurs and prescribing the effective interventions to achieving a strong support structure. The overall objective is to achieve well organized and coordinated national ecosystems supporting youth through their entrepreneurship journey across Africa. This will enable easy entry for youth in the food systems and promote their chances of success. In the end, healthy ecosystems will reduce the rate of youth unemployed and under-employed by encouraging and increasing the youth participation in agribusiness as self-employed and employers of fellow youth. The Ecosystem Development Framework (EDF) initiative will help countries shift from information and studies to a framework approach to strengthen the collaboration and coordination of youth support. 	We understand that youth engagement in agriculture will be essential to recovering from the economic impact of the pandemic, both to rejuvenate the continent's agri-food system and develop economic opportunities for young Africans. Furthermore, this engagement will bring about the strategic shift needed to secure a sustainable and dynamic future for Africa's smallholder farmers and Africa's agricultural sector. For this reason, Heifer is working with young African entrepreneurs to catalyze ground-up innovation from the youth, creating social businesses that address challenges faced by smallholder farmers at scale, and elevating agriculture as a desirable career. The passion and energy of young Africans can become the driving force of agricultural transformation and job creation in Africa. We are committed to addressing smallholder farmers challenges in Africa and providing a new incentive for young Africans to be bold, innovative and creative in solving food system issues across the continent.

	African countries have diversified both their exports and trade partners over the last decade, but African agricultural trade still suffers from structural problems as well as exogenous shocks. Against this backdrop, the 2021 Africa Agriculture Trade Monitor (AATM) analyzes continental and regional trends in African agricultural trade flows and policies. The report reveals that many African countries continue to enjoy the most success in global markets with cash crops and niche products. The AATM is produced as a collaborative effort between AKADEMIYA2063 and the International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI). Session participants will discuss the research findings and policy recommendations of the 2021 AATM, an annual publication dedicated to addressing intra-African agricultural trade and informing AfCFTA implementation.

PLENARY &amp; HEADLINERS
16:00-17:15	Leaders Town Hall &amp; Closing Ceremony Leadership Town Hall (Parliamentarians, Governors, and Local Leaders - Resilience: BuildForwardBetter) The core functions of Parliaments place them at a vantage position to drive the achievement of the Malabo Commitments through two strategies: i) by using their legislative role to nudge the executive to put in place the much needed enabling legislation including appropriation that supports CAADP implementation; and ii) by exercising their oversight function to ensure that laws are implemented effectively and that there is accountability<sup>1</sup> in the utilization of funds. The representation role further ensures that the voices of citizens are heard through their elected representatives. It is anticipated that as more key country stakeholders understand CAADP, the more they will embrace and engage with it; use data and recommendations from the Biennial Review (BR) to inform policy reforms and budgetary allocation. If harnessed, the collective responsibilities and powers of Parliament and citizens groups in support of the CAADP Malabo Commitment will impact greatly and positively on the utilization of the BR outcomes and recommendation and how well and quickly the continent can address the food and nutrition insecurity by 2025. The APFEHA system is therefore aimed at enhancing the use of data and evidence by Parliaments and Parliamentarians towards achieving the CAADP Malabo targets as well accelerating the transformation of Africa’s food system. Sequence 1: Welcome and Setting the Scene <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Welcome and Session Overview – Moderator</li> <li>• Framing Remarks - H.E.
